Comments

There is no interaction between students so he's does not know what exactly students do not know. When he told us to draw diagrams by ourselves on whiteboard last term, it was good, but now he only talks and his talking distracts often. When he thinks we don't understand, he goes back to explain the very basic of the content, (which is quite irrelevant to the question obviously)but we just don't know the stuff we are doing right now. i think this can be solved by more interactions, let the students do more talking, just like he did in the first term.

Really really good tutor
